Contents

Foreword 7
The International Development Education Association of Scotland (IDEAS)

Preface 9
Global Citizenship and Sustainable Development: Transformation in the Initial Education of Teachers
Rosalyn McKeown, Secretariat of UNESCO
International Network on Teacher Education
Charles Hopkins, UNESCO Chair in Reorienting Teacher Education towards Sustainability

1. Introduction 19
The Editors

2. Framing the Global 25
2.1 Section Introduction 25
2.2 Education in a Global Space: The Framing of ‘Education for Citizenship’
Mark Priestley, Gert Biesta, Greg Mannion,
University of Stirling and Hamish Ross, University of Edinburgh 27
2.3 Critical Thinking in the Context of Global Learning
Hetan Shah and Kate Brown, DEA 37
2.4 Planning for the Global in a Scottish Context: The Perspective from the General Teaching Council Scotland
Tom Hamilton, General Teaching Council Scotland 43
2.5 Bringing a Global Perspective to Initial Teacher Education: A B.Ed. Coordinator’s Perspective
Barbara Frame, University of Edinburgh 48
2.6 Twists and Turns: What might the Research Excellence Framework mean for Educational Researchers?
Jane Brown, University of Edinburgh 60
3. Surveying Attitudes towards the Global 67

3.1 Section Introduction
67

3.2 Global Citizenship and Initial Teacher Education: Tracking the Experiences of Undergraduate Students
Alan Britton and Harry Blee, University of Glasgow
69

3.3 Early Career Scottish Geography Teachers’ Perceptions of Education for Sustainable Development
Ashley Fenwick, University of Stirling and Bob Munro, University of Strathclyde
80

3.4 Where Are They Coming From? Education Students’ Knowledge of and Attitudes towards Global Issues
David Miller, Peter Wakefield and Brenda Dunn,
University of Dundee
90

3.5 Global Citizenship and the Initial Teacher Education of Science Teachers
Nicky Souter, University of Strathclyde
101

3.6 Challenges for Design and Technology Education: A Changing Paradigm
Susan V. McLaren, University of Edinburgh
113

3.7 Interdependence and Participation/Voice in Secondary Geography: The Centrality of Initial Teacher Education
Hamish Ross, University of Edinburgh
126

3.8 Implementing Sustainable Development Education in the School Curriculum: Learning for ITE from Teachers’ Experiences
Marie-Jeanne McNaughton, University of Strathclyde and Betsy King, WWF Scotland
137

3.9 “They Become Completely Involved.” What Teachers Say About the Benefits of Global Citizenship in Schools.
David Miller, Gwen Boswell, Erika Cunningham, Brenda Dunn,
Paola Fallone, Brenda Keatch, Mary Knight, Teresa Moran,
Loretta Mulholland, Peter Wakefield, University of Dundee
146
4. Enacting the Global through Pedagogy

4.1 Section Introduction

4.2 Putting Pedagogy at the Heart of Learning
Brian Boyd, Emeritus Professor, University of Strathclyde

4.3 New Models and Pedagogy for Education for Citizenship
Terry Wrigley, University of Edinburgh

4.4 Controversy as a Stimulus to Learning: A Lesson from the Past
Walter Humes, University of West of Scotland

4.5 Pedagogy for Global Intimacy
Peter Higgins, University of Edinburgh

4.6 Engaging Student Teachers with the Local Community: A Mapping Approach
Elizabeth Curtis, University of Aberdeen

4.7 ‘This Whole Agenda Changes Attitudes and Dispels Myths.’ A Study into Global Citizenship and Sustainable Development and its Place in Early Years Education
Brenda Dunn, Jill Shimi, David Miller and Peter Wakefield, University of Dundee

4.8 ICT, Self-Regulated Learning and Web-based Sustainable Development Education / Global Citizenship Resources
Robert Collins, Ethel Anderson, Marie-Jeanne McNaughton and Moira Paterson, University of Strathclyde

4.9 Science, Citizenship and Sustainability: A Collaborative and Interdisciplinary Approach to Learning and Teaching in Initial Teacher Education to Address Issues of Sustainability
Laura Colucci-Gray, Elizabeth Curtis, Christine Fraser, Donald Gray, University of Aberdeen

4.10 Re-imagining Cultural Difference
John I’Anson, University of Stirling

5. Reflecting on the Global
The Editors

Notes on Contributors